Matt Kadish Named Cleveland Litigation and Controversy – Tax “Lawyer of the Year”

Cleveland, OH -- August 2016 – Matthew F. Kadish of Hudson, was recently named the Best Lawyers® 2017 Litigation and Controversy – Tax “Lawyer of the Year” in Cleveland. The recognition is reserved for a single lawyer in each practice area and designated metropolitan area to be honored as the “Lawyer of the Year,” making this accolade particularly significant. This was the second time Kadish has earned the Lawyer of the Year designation. He was also named to the 2017 Best Lawyers list in the category of Tax Law and Trusts and Estates practice areas.

Kadish represents individual and business clients in tax-related planning, including choice of entity, business succession, estate, charitable giving, exempt organizations, and controversy with the Internal Revenue Service. He also advises and represents clients concerning foreign bank account reporting and disclosures and served as a consulting expert in a Federal criminal foreign bank account reporting matter.

He is a frequent speaker and instructor at numerous seminars and institutes nationwide, where he addresses tax-related matters. Additionally, he has appeared in various publications in the tax and estate planning-related fields. Kadish also serves as the CEO of the Small Business Council of America.

Prior to joining the firm in 2001, Kadish spent six years in private practice in Washington, D.C., where he was active in lobbying Congress and the IRS, and provided legislative monitoring for several trade associations. Earlier in his career, he served as law clerk to Hon. Herbert L. Chabot, U.S. Tax Court. The Hudson resident earned his LL.M. in Taxation at New York University, his J.D. with honors from the Case Western Reserve University School of Law, and his B.A. from Williams College in Massachusetts.

Lawyers honored as “Lawyer of the Year” are selected based on particularly impressive voting averages received during the peer-review assessments conducted with thousands of leading lawyers each year. Receiving the designation reflects the high level of respect a lawyer has earned among other leading lawyers in the same communities and the same practice areas for their abilities, their professionalism and their integrity.
